

Thompson Comments on KTRH on Disney's Latest Crisis

KTRH Radio

August 20, 2009

KTRH Radio in Houston interviewed Joel Thompson on the recent employee deaths at Walt Disney World in Orlando and how the company has reacted.

To listen to the interview, click here.

Walt Disney World in Orlando, had to cancel a stunt show, after an employee died during the practice. According to Associated Press, this is now the theme park's third worker, that has been killed on the job this summer. Although Disney have said that the three deaths are not related in any way, and federal investigators are treating them as separate accidents.

Joel Thompson is a civil trial lawyer with extensive experience in many different areas of litigation including products liability, wrongful death, insurance litigation, negligent security litigation, property damage, premise liability, construction litigation, DTPA and business torts. Because his experience encompasses all aspects of litigation, he is well equipped to handle a diverse trial caseload. He has represented both plaintiffs and defendants in jury trials, bench trials, administrative proceedings, and alternative dispute resolution.