Raised in small town Texas and educated in business, Cleve is a Board Certified Civil Trial Lawyer who has an affinity for risk takers who plan big, dare big and sometimes find themselves in big trouble – whether the risk taker is a principal of a $50 million business, or in-house counsel for a publicly traded company who seeks innovative, efficient approaches to legal disputes. Having responded to on-the-scene negative media coverage and also to internal fraud affecting the viability of a $40 million company, Cleve is experienced in crisis management and frequently assumes the role of in-house counsel to advise his companies on matters affecting all aspects of their business survival –both in the courthouse and in the court of public opinion.
