

Gray Reed Named Finalist for American Metal Market Awards for Steel Excellence

March 28, 2018

Gray Reed was announced as one of four finalists in the legal services category of the 2018 American Metal Market Awards for Steel Excellence.

The nomination process included:

- Providing the scope of services the firm provides to the steel industry,
- Outlining areas of legal expertise and significant achievements in the steel industry and
- Describing the impact of the firm's legal work on the client's regulatory compliance, financial performance and/or market share.

Finalists, profiled in the May 2018 issue of AMM Magazine, were selected by senior American Metal Market editors, and those entries will be scored by steel industry veterans who serve as judges to select the winners. The winners will be announced at the annual Steel Awards Dinner, to be held June 26 in New York.

About the AMM Awards for Steel Excellence

For the past eight years, American Metal Market has presented the Awards for Steel Excellence, which is one of the most prestigious and recognizable awards program for the global steel industry. The awards have recognized world-class innovation and excellence in steel and related industries for companies throughout the steel supply chain and by key partners to the industry. Firms that are finalists and winners have demonstrated best practices to achieve outstanding results. They embody best-in-class practices as measured by global standards.

Entering the ninth year for the awards, the 2018 program will feature 16 distinct categories. Categories are dedicated to all segments of the steel industry – from scrap companies and raw materials/consumables providers, to steel producers, tube and pipe producers, and service centers. Additional categories are specific to providers of critical services such as legal services, scrap equipment providers, financial services, information services, logistics, technology and environmental.
