November 13, 2020

Gray Reed is proud to be recognized, once again, as one of the “Best Places to Work in 2020” by the Houston Business Journal and the Dallas Business Journal. Gray Reed has been consistently ranked as a Best Places to Work in both offices for the last ten years, an honor the firm feels is a testament to its unique culture.

The firm's Houston office ranked 2nd in the large company category (the highest ranking law firm) and the firm's Dallas office ranked 24th in the medium company category.

The Best Places to Work Lists are compiled by independent research firm Quantum Workplace, which sent a survey to employees of hundreds of nominated companies in each city. Quantum then compiled scores based on worker retention and attraction strategies, corporate culture, amenities and benefits.
