Dallas Business Journal Names Gray Reed & McGraw “Best Places to Work”

July 1, 2015

(Dallas) – Gray Reed & McGraw is proud to be named one of the 2015 “Best Places to Work” in North Texas by the Dallas Business Journal. The prestigious honor selects the best workplaces across several company sizes. Gray Reed was one of just three law firms honored in this year’s awards.

Independent research firm Quantum Workplace surveyed employees from several hundred companies before compiling the data, crunching numbers and tallying results.

The surveys aimed to learn about the corporate culture and benefits available to each employee.

“We’re thrilled to be publicly recognized for something we value and invest so much in – our people,” Gray Reed Dallas office managing partner Tom Rhodus said. “They are the reason our firm has served our clients so well for the last 30 years.”

New in the competition’s 13th year – the company size categories of Micro (10–24 employees) and Extra Large (more than 1,000 employees). As a result, the DBJ will honor 100 companies this year, instead of 60 honored last year.
