

Matthew C. Lipton

Senior Counsel

Matt Lipton is an experienced dealmaker and advisor for healthcare clients in a wide range of healthcare and corporate matters, with a primary focus on mergers and acquisitions, and ongoing representation of physicians and physician organizations, physician-owned entities, ancillary providers, senior care/living, surgery centers and related entities.

He also advises an array of other business entities, including private equity funds and entities owned by private equity, on all manner of agreements, formation and governance issues, mergers and acquisitions, state and federal regulatory and compliance issues, and other ancillary issues.

In addition to years of experience in private practice, Matt has held roles as a general counsel and an executive at several companies, including a multi-site primary care medical group involved in full-risk capitation, a bio-tech start up, a company focused on the acquisition of distressed retail real estate assets and their conversion to medical properties, and a capital investment advisory firm. This has given him valuable insight and comprehensive knowledge from which clients benefit.

Experience

- Advised a private equity fund concerning the development, launch and operation of a multi-site primary care clinic business.
- Advised a client in connection with its purchase of multiple inpatient mental healthcare facilities.
- Represented a lab company client in connection with the expansion of its business via acquisition and joint ventures.
- Extensive experience in representing private equity funds and their portfolio companies.
- Extensive transactional experience in the senior housing space,
