INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

According to industry and financial experts, more than three-fourths of the value of today's most sizeable commercial companies is in intellectual property assets. The success and even viability of most businesses and institutions now depend on strategically and effectively identifying, protecting, commercializing, enforcing and defending the use of intellectual property assets. With industry knowledge, and working in a team-like collaboration with their clients, our attorneys develop comprehensive strategies and solutions for the myriad of intellectual property issues facing all businesses and institutions of today.

From publicly-traded companies to local start-ups, our clients in the intellectual property realm include service industry providers, universities and research institutions, financial institutions and funding groups, entrepreneurs, manufacturers in the telecommunications, healthcare, energy and technology industries, and other developers and users of leading-edge technologies and other IP assets.

IP PROTECTION, EVALUATION OF IP PORTFOLIO AND FREEDOM TO OPERATE

Our IP attorneys are skilled at identifying and strategically building their clients' intellectual property portfolios to most effectively leverage patent, trademark, copyright and trade secret-related assets in the global marketplace. Our attorneys are continually engaged in obtaining patents, trademark and copyright registrations throughout the world, structuring and negotiating IP-related licensing arrangements, and valuating corporate IP portfolios. Drawing on their expansive IP litigation experiences to bring from the abstract to the practical, and often teaming with our other attorneys from corporate, securities and other disciplines, our firm's IP attorneys frequently provide merger and acquisition-related due diligence and freedom-to-operate analysis.
